

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate from the University of Pennsylvania with a Ph.D. from Columbia University, Martha Bohachevsky-Chomiak is attracted to understudied topics – Russian liberalism, Ukrainian feminism, nationalism in Eastern Europe, and now the interaction of immigrant communities with the Eastern Rite Catholic Church in the United States. Dr. Bohachevsky-Chomiak also earned a Certificate from the Russian Institute, Columbia University (now the Harriman Institute) as well as an M.A. in 1961. She is the author of many seminal publications including Ukraine, Feminists Despite Themselves (1988) and Ukrainian Bishop, American Church (2018). She has taught in both the United States and Ukraine, including at Manhattanville College, Johns Hopkins, the Ukrainian Catholic University, and the University of Kyiv- Mohyla Academy.