

Bradley A. Gorski is Associate Professor of Soviet and post-Soviet culture in the Department of Slavic Languages at Georgetown University. He is the author of Cultural Capitalism: Literature and the Market after Socialism (2025) and co-editor with Philip Tuxbury-Gleissner of Red Migrations: Transnational Mobility and Leftist Culture after Socialism (2024).