

Klavdia Smola is professor and chair of Slavic Studies, University of Dresden. In 2023, she was Visiting Professor at the Harriman Institute, Columbia University. She authored Reinvention of Tradition: Contemporary Russian-Jewish Literature (2023) and (co-)edited, among others, The Oxford Handbook of Soviet Underground Culture (2024); (Counter-)Archive: Memorial Practices of the Soviet Underground (2024); (Multi)national Faces of Socialist Realism: Beyond the Russian Literary Canon (special issue of Slavic Review, 2022); Jewish Underground Culture in the late Soviet Union (special issue of East European Jewish Affairs, 2018); and Postcolonial Slavic Literatures after Communism (2016).